

The market challenge

Increasingly high volumes of complex documentation, in different formats from multiple systems and sources, makes data extraction and downstream processing costly in both time and resources, resulting in operational inefficiencies and impaired decision-making.

Digitize enables you to take control of complex financial documentation using the latest extraction and straight-through-processing technologies. Our fully automated platform features give you highly accurate, digitized information that is ready to use, delivering operational efficiencies and quicker, deeper insight at reduced cost.

Efficient, intelligent document processing

- Manage every aspect of document processing; from receipt and data extraction to validation, reconciliation and downstream processing, all in one place
- Search, view, and download documents instantly upon receipt and throughout the digitization process via our document portal
- Deeper document analysis, including a customizable workflow engine to supplement, categorize, and process digitized documents
- Reconciles and standardizes your non-digitized data and connects it with already digitized data to reduce discrepancies, ready for use in multiple downstream systems
- Can be applied to multiple use cases across industries with minimum configuration and no additional investment

Helping you capitalize on your data

- Intelligent data extraction gives you above-industry-average accuracy for both structured, semi-structured and unstructured documents
- Convert extracted data to a common universal dataset, giving enhanced data for processing
- Extracted data is attached to processed documents as metadata tags
- Digitize's 'decision-tree' workflow minimizes the effort to identify incomplete data and accelerate its population
- If incomplete, our expert data specialists supplement the extraction process to give you the fullest possible data visibility and highest data quality
- Data is readied for your specific analytical needs and can be agnostically delivered to multiple downstream systems

Request a demo - find out more about how Solvas Digitize can help your business requestademo@solvassolutions.com

Digitize is part of the Solvas product suite that also includes:

Solvas Portfolio

Solvas Compliance

Solvas Accounting